San Bernardino Mourns Passing Of Hurla Griffith

Mrs. Hurla Griffith

Hurla was born in Cullman County, Alabama to John and Margaret Griffith. She had four brothers and a sister: George, William, Theron, Matthew, and Clara. After graduating from Colony High School in 1926, she married Mervin B. Clopton in 1933. To this union were born five sons, Roland, Louis, Otis, William and John.

In addition to raising her own five children, when her only sister, Clara, died, she assumed the responsibility of raising her three children as well. They soon became the daughters she never had; her nieces, Mary Jones, Jean Cheatum, and Joyce Daniels, affectionately called her "Aunt Hurla".

Griffith moved to San Bernardino, California in 1958, still pursuing higher education. She received certificates for Nursing Attendant I and II from the San Bernardino Adult Education School in 1969. She was a member of St. Paul A.M.E. Church for 36 years. She was also a member of Golden Star Chapter #33 of the Order of Easter Star, where she held various offices.

Griffith is survived by four sons, Roland and Otis of Rialto, CA; William of O'Fallon, IL; and John of Pomona, CA; one brother, Theron Griffith, of Detroit, MI; eleven grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, and a host of nieces, nephews and friends.

Brown's district, reconfigured in the 1990 reapportionment, includes the cities of Rancho Cucamonga, Fontana, Rialto, Colton, Grand Terrace, most of San Bernardino, and a portion of Ontario east of Euclid Avenue.

Brown has represented this area in Congress since 1972. He lives in San Bernardino with his wife, Marta Macias.

In announcing his candidacy, Brown said, "Every two years I carefully review my performance in the Congress and assess my efficacy at reaching both the short-term goals I have set for my tenure. Attempted Kidnap Foiled

A boy 13, escaped suspected kidnappers when he was walking to the bus stop near the vicinity of 10th and Perris Streets.

According to the father, the truck came up from behind and as the boy began to run the truck sped up. When he realized what was happening, he ran faster and screamed, he was heard by a neighborhood woman who began hollering at the men in the truck. They sped away.

They are described as being in a brown Datsun or Toyota truck, with faded letters. The men appeared to be Hispanic, one medium build, the other heavy, and one of the two men had a thick mustache.

Parents are warned to be on the lookout for their children.

Christopher Brown Will Need Burial Money

Christopher Brown is dying and his mother is asking for help. It was 1991 when we first wrote an article. According to his mother, Christine Smith, Brown, then 10, was looking at television and imitating Superman when he hung himself. The oxygen to his brain was cut off and he has been in the hospital since. There were a series of events that caused the family to lose everything and now after a massive heart attack, he is not expected to live.

The dilemma facing his mother is that there is no money to bury him. Anyone wishing to help can call her at (909) 653-0128.

Guilbert Leaves Inland Empire

Many people recognize her voice and know her name but have never seen her face because it has been hidden behind a microphone for the past eight years in the production studio of radio stations KGGI 99.1 and KMEN 1290 Sportsradio. Ali Jordan-Guilbert, "Viewpoint" talk show host and Public Affairs Director with the stations aired her last program on January 2nd leaving the community with an uplifting, spiritual message for 1994 brought by interviewees, Dr. Carlo and Diana Presley of Claremont in which they encouraged listeners to welcome change into their lives. Little did Guilbert know that this message was directed at her!

A major life-change will be taking place for the Guilbert family after March 28th when husband, John, retires from Pacific Bell as Regional Manager and Staff Advisor to the Vice President, where he has worked for the past twenty-five years, starting his career with the company six months after their marriage. The Guilberts will be relocating to the island of Nevis in the West Indies where John will enter into a partnership with brother, Arthur, manufacturing comput-

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

ADDIE W. BROWN, Ph.D.
Human Behavior Enhancement

I read with interest your strong January 13, 1994 editorial, "Look in the Mirror." It takes its place as another wake-up call for African Americans struggling to survive in this racist society. The Black Voice is indeed sending us a strong message.

If we accept the challenge and have the courage to look in the mirror, let us understand that although we are now the most academically educated Black folk on earth, it seems that all we learned was to believe rather than to think. Let us understand that we are painfully short on our ability to analyze the economic, social and political forces and agendas which are too often not in our best interests.

Let us understand that it is critical that we be about developing a strong sense of identity and race pride, out of which come the solidarity and cohesiveness, self-respect and the ethically-based value system called for in your editorial. Short of this, we will remain an impoverished people wallowing and sinking in the cesspool of life, as we continue to collaborate in our own destruction, rather than carry on the legacy of builders as our ancient Egyptian pyramid-building ancestors would have us to be.

As we look in the mirror, it is imperative that we ask ourselves why we feel the need to defend our attitude of caring about the social economic survival of our own. It is important that we see caring and sharing among our own as a preference, rather than prejudice-in-reverse, which is a mainstream group trap to put us in a guilt bag for having this healthy attitude. Some of us may recall that before integration, the survival of our bodies, minds and spirits depended upon group support, known today as the "hood".

I hope that The Black Voice wake-up call is not too late and is more than a voice in the wilderness calling for us to return from impoverishing moon walk maneuvers, and back to our original unadulterated humanity. May The Black Voice continue to call out our shortcomings. Then, and only then, can we look in the mirror unabashedly.

Facing Up To The Crime Crisis

BY JOHN E. JACOB

Crime is the top issue concerning Americans, but if we're really serious about doing something about crime we'd better face up to reality and not wallow in myths.

One way to face up to reality is to get some tough gun legislation passed.

When Congress finally passed the Brady Bill, about as mild a measure as possible, it was the first defeat for the gun lobby.

Now our leaders should build on that victory and restrict civilian use of weapons such as handguns and assault weapons, either through outright bans or by taxing them out of existence.

Comprehensive disarmament legislation could easily preserve people's right to hunt and to use guns for sport while getting dangerous weaponry off the streets. Domestic disarmament makes sense. After all, we put more restrictions on driving and on all kinds of potentially harmful goods and practices than we do on weapons.

But it makes sense for another reason, the second way we have to face up to reality: we need to change our culture away from one that venerates violence to one that refuses to accept violence as a norm.

Our society is permeated with violent images and with a popular culture that glorifies violence, racial stereotypes, and disrespect to women.

Such a culture turns morality on its head: what ought to be condemned becomes all right; what should be seen as self-destructive becomes accepted.

That's why it was so important when several Black-owned, Black-oriented radio stations recently announced they wouldn't air songs that glorify violence and denigrate women. Their actions were immediately labelled censorship, which shows how far we've drifted from reality. Free speech doesn't mean forcing people to air or to listen to views that are offensive and erode civilized standards of behavior.

To Be Equal

The third way to face up to the reality of crime is for African-American communities to make it a top priority.

On one level that will require working with local authorities to get rid of the drug dealers and muggers.

But on another level, it means placing a new emphasis on developing our children, instilling strong moral values and refusing to settle for anything less.

When a community's children fail it indicates that the community's adults have failed their children. If that is the case, then we adults have been failing our children for so long that only an all-out effort can save them and our communities.

Another way we need to face up to reality: get rid of drugs.

On a community level, we've got to make drugs unacceptable. On a local level, police and courts, with the help of the community, have to act aggressively to break up the drug gangs and dealers.

And on a national level, the Administration needs to develop and prioritize a drug policy that concentrates not only on cutting the supplies of drugs, but also on cutting demand for drugs.

That means an aggressive, nationwide program to make treatment and rehabilitation available to every drug user, along with special efforts to keep children from ever starting on drugs.

Finally, if we are really serious about crime: get to the roots of crime by ending poverty.

That's the dirty secret underlying all the talk about "getting tough on crime;" the unmentionable but indispensable part of the crime issue. Facing up to crime means facing up to the reality that crime is fed by anger and resentment caused by poverty, racism and poor living conditions.

When Will Blacks Get Reparations?

PART II

The accumulation of money or saving is an imperative component for economic development. Saving is a requisite process for acquiring productive means or non-human capital assets. Assets like businesses and private property which can generate additional income through commercial sales or overtime through capital appreciation usually require some prior form of savings. Dr. David Swinton attributes 56% of the aggregate income gap between Blacks and Whites to lower levels of capital ownership by African-Americans.

Finally consumption transfers money and hence the potential for wealth from African-American to those individuals and establishments owning the productive means to produce what we buy. Last year as Black consumers we only purchased 3% of our goods and services from Black-owned enterprises. The remaining 97% of our discretionary income went to business establishments outside of the African-American economy.

It is uncertain whether monetary reparations will generate more Black-owned businesses and internal commerce. If the current spending habits are assumed to persist a $100,000 monetary reparation would be recycled back into the greater common economy via payments for personal wants and therein generate enormous revenue and profits for majority owned companies. This result would in essence exacerbate the current wealth gap between Blacks and Whites.

Even if the award was in the form of a trust and deposited at one of the nation's 27 Black-owned banks, much of the money would still wind-up outside of the African-American economy. Economists Andrew Brimmer contends that Black owned banks are "...net exporters of funds from the Black community to the money market at large.

In Detroit the city council passed a non-binding resolution seeking $40 billion in educational funds for the decedents of slaves. A similar bill has been introduced into the Massachusetts legislature." The nomination of an educational reparation was prompted by a pall of disturbing demographics. The National Urban League's 1991 annual report on the "State of Black America" estimates that nearly 14% of African-American females and 17% of African-American males "had no high school education" in comparison to 9% and 10% of White females and males respectively."

It obviously behooves the United States to provide all of its chickens with the best possible education; indeed the pretext of preparation for improving Black education is clearly redundant. Most economists agree that human resources constitute the most important ingredient to economic success. Educational Investments in human capital development has a direct and positive effect on productivity and wages. A knowledgeable work force is indispensable and education is the best way to produce competent workers and good citizens. If the U.S. economy intends to compete internationally and prosper, then it cannot allocate lower educational resources to African-Americans.

Although education has helped bring many more Black people into the economic mainstream of America it has not proven to be a complete vehicle for creating wealth. Since 1970, high school and college graduation rate for African-Americans has steadily improved. Correspondingly the number of African-American households earning over $50,000 annually reached 1 million (for the first time) in 1990. But available data indexing Black ownership shows no significant change in percentage of capital assets controlled by African-Americans."

What then is the most appropriate remedy for the economic injustices of slavery. We propose that the U.S. Congress modify the current immigration laws to augmenting Africa Immigration into the United States. Immigration can help correct many problems within the African-American community.

First of all, immigrants traditionally save more money than natives which consequently allows them to start-up new businesses faster. According to Julian Simon, a professor of economics at the University of Maryland, immigrants are nearly twice as likely to open new businesses. This means that for every 100 new immigrants admitted to the country between 7 and 14 start new businesses. New African enterprises along with current Black businesses would represent a solid foundation for authentic African-American economy.

The immigration reparation presents African-Americans with an opportunity to realize many national goals with a single stroke. 1) To achieve more diversified Black business and wealth. 2) Boost trade with Africa. 3) Improve Africa's image in America! 4) And not least strengthen Pan-African communal bonds. All this reparation requires is that the U.S. relax its barriers to African immigration. Presently U.S. Immigration Law treats Africa as though it were a country instead of a continent. Currently over 681 million people live in continental Africa but less than 20,000 gain permanent resident visas each year. More than 30,000 people annually immigrate from South Korea, a country of 42 million people.

In advocating increasing immigration some popular stereotypes about immigrants must first be dispelled. The most prominent argument against immigration is that it takes jobs away from Blacks. The logic is simple: if the number of jobs is relatively fixed and immigrants occupy some jobs then there must be fewer jobs available for Blacks. This is ironically the same argument that workers in northern factories used to justify continuing slavery; specifically that free Blacks would migrate to the north and take jobs away from working class Whites. But statistical evidence and history have never support this Malthusian notion.

Immigrants ties to Africa are further demonstrated by the fact that 88% make remittances to their immediate families other relatives, or friends. Thirty-seven percent annually remit between $1,300 and $3,000 for the support of family and friends while 20% remit from $3,500 to $10,000. Remittances to relatives and friends helps improve a nation's income distribution because it generally adds money and wealth to the mid-low income brackets. Remittances from abroad provide African governments with an added source of foreign exchange which can readily be used to pay debt, increase foreign reserves, or purchase goods from abroad.

In addition to supporting families and friends, 58 % of the respondents indicated that they currently had financial investment projects (housing real estate and business) in their home countries. These kinds of investments can stimulate capital outlays and savings.

African immigration won't magically solve all of our problems, no single action can. Unlike other proposals immigration is a benediction that will extend into the indefinite future. Africans will enrich our communities economically, socially, politically, and culturally. But most importantly African Immigration will strengthen Pan-African communal bonds. Dr. Teshome Gabriel, a native of Ethiopia and professor of film at UCLA, aptly summarizes the gravity of this matter. "Our coming to America brings the destinies of Black-American and Africans closer together. We are all African people."

Even Before Winning Its First Dogfight, The 99th Fighter Squadron Had Made History.

It Was All Black.

World War II was in full swing when a group of courageous young men enlisted in the U.S. Army Air Corps. They were known as the Tuskegee Airmen, the first African-Americans ever to undergo training as combat fighter pilots. Faced with a somewhat skeptical military establishment, they quickly set out to prove themselves. And prove themselves they did. Within months, they were organized into the all-black 99th Fighter Squadron and sent to fight in the skies over Italy and Germany. By war's end, the 99th and its all-black sister units had destroyed nearly 50 enemy aircraft and done untold damage to the Axis war effort.

What these brave men achieved is just one of many little-known contributions African-Americans have made to our country. That's why American proudly offers accounts like this in observance of Black History Month. By so doing, the stories of the Tuskegee Airmen and others like them will be heard and appreciated by people everywhere. And their accomplishments will continue to assure them their rightful place in American history.

The Commission's overall mission is to protect County residents, as well as public and private property, from flood hazards. Vacancies currently exist within Zone 2, which comprises the Corona and Norco areas. Commissioners must reside within the zone which they represent. The Commission meets several times each year; Commissioners are appointed to three-year terms.

Mental Health Services Regional Advisory Board - Western County Area

Members of this advisory board play an advocacy role in making recommendations on a full range of County Mental Health Services and in making the public aware of the exciting challenges and accomplishments in the mental health field. Community members with experience and interest in mental health are encouraged to apply. . . whether they are mental health professionals, clients or have close ties to a client. The Advisory Board meets monthly; members are appointed to three-year terms.

"County residents who serve on these boards and commissions provide a vital service by linking County programs to local communities," said Supervisor Dunlap. "Community involvement has always been the key to designing programs which meet local needs," she said.

For more information, or to apply for appointment to these advisory panels, please contact Supervisor Dunlap's office at (909) 275-1020.

STRIDE Holds Youth Rally And Overnight Workshop

S.T.R.I.D.E. (Striving to Redirect Individuals in A Drowning Environment) Invites all youth organizations, schools and churches to participate in the 12th Annual "Unite As One" Overnight Workshop and Youth Rally scheduled for February 25 and 26, 1994 at the Sturges Center for the Fine Arts.

This year's event promises to be the best ever. There will be creative talent including local youth groups and organizations, the Henleys and Lester Brown of Brown & Associates. This program is a must for parents, youth and individuals interested in making a difference.

The purpose of the workshop is to give students in the Inland Area an opportunity to "Unite As One", to encourage youth to confront peer pressure and provide them with manageable decision-making skills to resolve conflict and parental understanding. The program is designed to motivate, stimulate and educate the youth of all backgrounds to become physically, spiritually, and mentally whole.

The admission for the Rally is $3.00 and the admission for the entire Overnight Program is $10.00.

The Advisory Coalition and S.T.R.I.D.E. still seeks financial support and board members.

For businesses, corporations and individuals interested in making a difference, please call (909) 384-5131.

Do I Need to Join A Church?

QUESTION: Dear Dr. Woods, I love God and I am a Christian. However, right now I don't belong to any church. I visit several churches, yet, many people say I need to be a member of a church. Is that necessary?

G.G. La Puente, CA

ANSWER: The Bible says in Hebrews 10:25, "Let us not forsake the assembling of ourselves together as the manner of some is." God wants you to fellowship with other Christian believers to increase in your spiritual growth. I believe with all my heart that every sheep needs a pastor. You, as a sheep of God, need a pastor to assist you in your spiritual growth.

God has charged pastors with the maturing of His sheep. Also, you as a believer have a place in the Body of Christ. God is holding you responsible to aid with the furtherance of the Gospel. Every church has a vision or plan from God (or should have one). God wants you to hook up with a local church and be a part of the vision. Being a part of a dynamic purpose filled church is exciting! I pray that you become a part of a church that has a purpose and that you can help fulfill that purpose.

If you have a question that you would like answered, write: Dr. Reginald L. Woods, P.O. Box 9778, San Bernardino, CA 92427-9778.

"Mission And Ecumenism" To Be Topic Of STC Lecture

School of Theology at Claremont professor Cornish R. Rogers will give the lecture "Mission and Ecumenism" Tuesday, February 8th at 10:30 a.m. in the Mudd Theater. The discussion will cover the relationship between evangelism, ecumenism and mission of the global church and why it is important for students to be oriented to an ecumenical approach to evangelism. For more information call (909) 626-3521.

Van Peebles Leads Catalyst Role In Gunmen

BY BILLY JOHNSON, JR.
ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

This is probably the craziest western movie you'll ever see. First of all, it's 1994, not 18-something. Second, it has a surprise comedy element.

Somewhere in the beginning Cole (Mario Van Peebles) breaks Dari

(Christopher Lambert) out of prison, not because they're long lost buddies, but because Dari knows the whereabouts of his brother's boat (which has over 400 million dollars worth of money stolen from Peter Loomis (Patrick Stewart) a big time drug dealer).

Since Cole and Dari do not trust each other, until the end of the movie, their scenes are filled with slap stick comedy that is either downright silly, confusing or plain 'not funny.' It probably was not a good idea.

While Cole and Dari have enough problems trying to get along, more drama comes into play as Loomis hires heartless killer Armor O'Malley (Denis Leary) to intervene in Cole and Dari's plan to find the money.

The title "Gunmen" signals that there are more than ample killings throughout the movie. One of the most memorable scenes takes place when one of O'Malley's lethal sidekicks Maria (Brenda Bakke) kills her boyfriend after discovering him to be a traitor.

The silliest scene takes place when Cole and Dari finally reach Mexico, where the boat is located. Though the two are dodging O'Malley and his goons, and are forced to get along, they still do not trust each other. To make sure Cole does not betray Dari, Dari (who has all the guns at this point) shoots Cole in the leg. Try to image Cole hobbling throughout Mexico with Dari in search of the boat. If that was not silly enough, it gets worse when Cole returns the favor and shoots Dari in the leg. And of course, the fellas still find the boat first, and double-handily kill off O'Malley's crew and gain the 400 million dollars.

If you've seen previews that feature Big Daddy Kane, Eric B and Rakim or Kid Frost you do not need to spend your money to see them in the movie. You've already seen their very brief cameo roles. Big Daddy Kane did not even perform one verse of his song. These guys however, did stick around for the soundtrack that has a pretty good hip hop feel thanks to executive producer Mario Van Peebles.

Acting Is Easier Than Directing According To Van Peebles

BY BILLY JOHNSON, JR.
ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

Mario Van Peebles laughs, "I had really tough decisions to make on this movie like whether or not I should get the Margarita or the Pina Colada or how long to sit by the pool" as he explains how much easier acting in "Gunmen" was in comparison to directing movies like "Posse" and "New Jack City."

Van Peebles continues, "After you've directed enough, it's like great not too. As long as you don't have to watch your back in terms of politically something like you do not want to say or do. Once you've comfortable with the director and he's cool, he'll do you right and you can do what you want to do. Then, I'm happy and easy to work with. It's those people who haven't directed that will drive you crazy with all the suggestions. Once you know how much work it is, as long as the guy is competent, I'm more than happy to have someone else do the hard work."

Beside acting in "Gunmen" Van Peebles served as the executive producer for the soundtrack which includes Big Daddy Kane, Eric B. and Rakim and Kid Frost.

Van Peebles explains, "They let me do the soundtrack. I thought it was interesting to call Rakim and them when it wasn't a 'hood movie. When they're going to 'A Last Action Hero' they call a rock 'n roll band. When they're going to do 'New Jack' or 'Menace' we call the rappers. I thought it was nice to sorta see them get out of that."

Van Peebles

Just one of Van Peebles and Lambert's fights in Deran Serafian's "Gunmen"

Grassrootz - "Grass Lands" - Ruf Nek Records - Billy Goat, Manish Flats and Nonstop the Brainchild may be the fellas that really put Riverside on the hip hop map. Their hype energetic rap delivery is definitely on the hard-core tip. But the music on their first single "Grass Lands" is more smooth-mellow-and-laid-back. It uses a familiar loop from Tribe Called Quest's "Anita Applebum" and should appeal to Tribe Called Quest and even Souls of Mischief fans. And since I like it, you know it must have content.

Manish Flats says, "Grass Lands is like a realm where people are all the same. It's sorta subliminal. Everybody's like on the same level. Nobody's higher than another. Everybody's the same."

But this mellow vibe on "Grass Lands" is just one side to Grassrootz. The fellas assert their favorite style is straight up hard-core. But in order to solicit radio airplay, they made "Grass Lands" their first release.

Last Thursday night, I saw them perform at the Alkaholiks show at Monopoly's and the fellas definitely opened up the show right. They performed another single "Planet Earth" which is also nice, but not necessarily hard-core.

Smooth Dolla - What The -- We Here Fo - Fantum Records - This 18 year old rapper is not only the hard-core emcee behind the lyrics, he's also the mastermind behind the slow-hard-and-funky beats on this ep. His voice sorta sounds like MC Eiht (which is good) and his rap flow reminds you of Tupac's hard-core-gangsta style.

The beats will catch the attention of those who like that Too-Short-Oakland funk. But Smooth Dolla does not do too much sampling. When he does, he says we "can't recognize it [the part of the song he sampled]." The ep which includes an intro, four songs and an interlude has a strong consistent feel to it. So if you like one song, you'll like them all.

Though his music has a dark-hard-core sound, and his image is definitely hard-core, he will initially be placed in the gangsta rap category. But if you listen to his lyrics, you'll notice that his lyrics are not all about killing, robbing and stealing.

Smooth Dolla explains, "The average person would classify me as a gangsta rapper, but that's not where my music is at. My music is reality-hard-core. . .To me gangsta rap is just talking about shooting people, how you killed them and how you did this and how you had sex and all this. I do that [talk about sex] too, because sex is a reality. I'll talk about that the same way I talk about the politicians. I'll just be real with everything I say."

The ep should now be available in the local record stores: AMC, Groove Time, ya'll know the rest.

Randall, Chavez Produce A Three In MGM's Garden

BY LELAND STEIN
SPORTS EDITOR

▲Chavez's 90-fight streak ends, but a rematch is already set.

LAS VEGAS: In the first ever fight at MGM's 15,222 seat Grand Garden, the main course on a card that featured unbeaten WBC Super Lightweight Champion Julio Cesar Chavez (89-0-1, 77 KO's) and Frankie Randall (48-2-1, 39 KO's); IBF Welterweight Champion Felix Trinidad (22-0, 19 KO's) and Hector Camacho (44-2, 21 KO's); and WBC Super Welterweight Champion Simon Brown (40-2, 30 KO's) vs. Troy Walters (21-3, 15 KO's), was thrilling and filling for consumers of the sweet science.

The Chavez, Randall bout served up a smorgasbord of boxing action. Randall cooked up - using all his boxing skills - a stunning 12-round split decision victory over the fighter many recognize as one of the greatest pound-for-pound combatant ever. Single-point deductions by referee Richard Steele in the seventh and 11th rounds against Chavez gave an assist to Randall in the final judges' tally sheets. Without the penalties, Chavez would have won a split decision victory.

ry. Ironically, Steele is the same guy who suddenly stopped the Meldrick Taylor fight in 1990 with 2 seconds remaining in the 12th round, and Taylor ahead on all the cards, Chavez was awarded a 12-round TKO.

Chavez did not let this fact hide his displeasure for Steele's point deductions. In the post fight press conference he loudly and vehemently protested, noting that "both fighters had been fighting like that the whole fight."

Randall sitting on the opposite side of the podium from Chavez, would not be pulled into a controversy concerning the low blow penalties. "I'm

"He hurt me every time he hit me, but I thought I did a good job of taking what he dished out and dishing out some of my own, too."

---said Randall not the judge and I don't make them (the rules), I just follow them," he said.

Despite any misgivings about the point deductions, the fight was crowd-pleasing and flowed with none stop action throughout. But the fight's biggest moment came in the 11th, when Randall sat Chavez on the canvas with a solid straight right hand.

"I want to congratulate Randall, he fought a tremendous fight," said Chavez, "and Don King calls Felix Trinidad the next superstar welterweight.

I was certainly surprised when I hit the canvas."

Says Randall, 32, and new champion: "We were both throwing hard, crisp punches. It was a punch that happened to get there before he got off what he wanted to get off."

In the press room you could clearly see both fighters were battered and bruise. Chavez's and Randall's tattered faces showed that each had been in a war with a talented and determined foe.

While Chavez did not let on to whether he was hurting or not, in fact, saying he wants a rematch tomorrow. Randall did not hide what he was feeling at the moment physically.

"My face hurts like hell, and those body shot really get to you," said a refreshing and well spoken Randall. "He hurt me every time he hit me, but I thought I did a good job of taking what he dished out and dishing out some of my own, too.

Julio Chavez suffered his first knockdown and pro defeat, all in one evening.

"I worked hard for this and I think this victory uplifted my skills. I always knew I had talent, but I just didn't get the opportunities."

Chavez, still in no mood to concede defeat, took a shot at the judges who might have placed too much weight on the knockdown in the 11th, saying: "If great fighters like Ali and Sugar Ray Leonard have hit the canvas, then why can't Chavez, and still be rewarded for the total fight. You can't lose a fight with one fall (knock-down). I feel I won almost all the rounds. I respect Frankie tremendously, but, out of 12 rounds he won three."

Chavez will get his chance to back up that statement, because a rematch has been announced for May 7, back at the Grand Garden.

In the other world title fights, young raising star, Trinidad, chased down Camacho just enough to win a unanimous 12-round victory. Brown, in another fast paced action filled bout outlasted Walters, winning a 12-round majority decision.

Spirit To Hold Open Tryouts

The San Bernardino Spirit announced that they will hold an open tryout to find players to assist in filling their 1994 California League roster. The dates of the camp are February 18th and 19th. Sunday, February 20th is scheduled as the third day of the camp and the players will return for this day by invitation only.

The times for the camp will be 8:30 a.m. - 5:45 p.m. on Friday, 8:30 a.m. - 4:45 p.m. on Saturday, and 9:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. on Sunday (by invitation only). Position players will tryout on Friday and Saturday.

Friday's session will cover defensive skills and running, and Saturday will cover hitting. Pitchers will be trying out on Saturday only.

Instructors and evaluators for the tryout camp will include Spirit staff members, and various professional scouts will be in attendance. A full time trainer will be on hand.

Each player trying out must bring his own equipment. The Spirit will provide balls, helmets, and screens. Also, each player is responsible for his own transportation, food, and lodging. Registrants must be 18 years of age or older. There is a $150.00 registration fee that is only refundable if the player is signed to a contract by the San Bernardino Spirit Baseball Club.

To register, visit the Spirit office or call (909) 881-1836 to give the Spirit some pre-tryout information. Players will be given a registration number when their registration fee of $150.00 has been paid in full. The Spirit will accept cash, money orders, or cashier's checks as payment for the registration.

NBS to Hold 1994 Mini-Summit At Copper Mountain

The National Brotherhood of Skiers (NBS) will hold its 1994 Mini-Summit, Annual Meeting Challenge Cup (AMCC) at Copper Mountain, Colorado.

The event follows the organization's 20th Anniversary Summit held at Vail, Colorado in January 1993. Over 2,000 NBS members are expected to attend the Mini-Summit at Copper Mountain.

The NBS is a non-profit, predominantly African-American organization with a membership of over 1,400. The NBS is the largest ski club in the United States and has been in existence for over 20 years. The Jim Dandy Ski Club of Detroit, Michigan recently celebrated its 35th anniversary as did the Chicago Ski Twisters. On the West Coast the Winter Fox Ski Club celebrated their 15th anniversary.

The National Brotherhood of Skiers was founded by Art Clay of Chicago, Illinois and Ben Finley of Los Angeles, California. The first "Black Summit" ski gathering took place in Aspen, Colorado in 1973. The purpose of the organization is to encourage and support minority youth in quest of membership on the United States Ski Team. In addition, the NBS promotes winter sports among African-Americans. At present the NBS supports and provides financial assistance to over 25 African-American youth who are members of the NBS A & B national racing teams. In addition to these scholarships, the NBS supports 4 regional programs providing training to over 1,000 young African-American skiers throughout the United States as a part of the NBS youth development program.

The youth program has developed a number of talented African-American skiers. In the Northeast, Kina Pickett of Woodstock, Vermont has developed into a nationally ranked skier. Mike Nelms of Edina, Minnesota is on the United States development team. Kenya Brock of Atlanta, Georgia attends Burke Mountain Academy and is on her way as a ranked skier. Jahi Rohrer of Denver, Colorado and Jahari Wier from San Diego, California are competing now and will be the vanguard of the future for African-American skiers.

The Mini-Summit week will include alpine (downhill) and nordic (cross country) skiing and racing instruction. Skiers at all levels, beginning with the novice first time skier, are given a soulful and warm welcome introduction to skiing. The 81 clubs compete for honors with the NBS "Challenge Cup" awarded to the club with the best overall combined race results in alpine and nordic skiing. Individual awards go to those competing in "NAS-TAR" format races. Many of the activities are sponsored by long time supporters such as Anheuser-Busch Brewery and the Sterling Winthrop Drug Company.

Mantle Enters Betty Ford Clinic

Mickey Mantle, whose major-league career was noted both for home runs and late nights, has checked into the Betty Ford Center for treatment of alcohol abuse.

Mantle, 62, a Hall of Famer since 1974, is expected to complete treatment next month, according to a statement issued recently by his business manager, Roy True.

The statement didn't say when the three-time American League Most Valuable Player entered the clinic, only that he was receiving treatment for "a 43-year battle with alcohol abuse." The statement said Mantle was "prompted by brief periods of blackout, suffering from memory loss over the past six years, and concern about possible liver damage."

Mantle, eighth on the career home-run list with 532, retired at age 36 in 1968 after 18 seasons with the New York Yankees. He won four AL home run titles.

Sciatica, Back To Health

In half of all cases sciatic pain resolves spontaneously within a month. Only 5-10% of the people ever need surgery.

If the patient has bowel incontinence or bladder problems they may come under the knife within a couple of days.

The use of anti-inflammatory drugs such as aspirin or ibuprofen and a few days of bed rest are key.

Longer bed rest and traction probably do more harm than good. Hot or cold packs may ease the pain but are otherwise of limited value.

The first step to treatment is a detailed history and physical examination. Plain X-rays don't show soft tissue problems. Sciatica is confirmed by the use of magnetic resonant imaging (MRI), computerized tomography (CT) scanning or a myelogram (injecting a dye into the spinal canal).

The classic intervention for a herniated disk is a laminectomy where pieces of vertebrae and extruded fragments of the damaged disk are removed. This requires general anesthetic. There are risks involved.

Alternatives to laminectomies are: * Chemonucleolysis (CNL). The affected disks are injected with an enzyme called chymopapain made from the juice of the papaya. It softens the filling of the disk called the nucleus pulposus permitting the nerve crushing bulge to shrink. This procedure requires local anesthetic. It can take hours to days before the enzyme does its work and the patient feels better. This procedure is used more in Europe. Physicians in the United States have used it reluctantly. Out of 20 studies comparing CNL with laminectomy 17 found essentially equal success rates for the two procedures. Three studies reported laminectomy was slightly more effective.

Our Bodies

Ernest Levister, M.D.

Automated percutaneous discectomy (APD), where a thin tube with a cutting device and a vacuum on its tip is inserted into the herniated disk sucking away some of the nucleus pulposus, thus reducing pressure so the bulge will subside.

* Lazer discectomy (LD), where recovery is slower.

A 1991 Rand Corporation study found that chiropractic manipulation can't take the pressure off a crushed sciatic nerve, some situations. This notwithstanding, Judy in my office swears by her chiropractor as do many of my patients.

In general, scientists have not been able to determine which therapy works best with the least amount of fuss. Sciatica usually resolves on its own with treatment. The jury is still out as to the best approach.

The key is prevention. Proper posture and physical conditioning are important. Remember, torso muscles support the spine much as rigging supports the mast of a ship. The further away from the body you carry weight the more stress the lower back has to cope with. Sciatica might be the result of a simple fault in human design, an engineering problem some people are destined to face.

Total cure lies just beyond the physician's reach but prevention remains in your hands.

The family will be moving their 9-year old son, Ryan, a purebred Arabian mare, a Thoroughbred gelding, a male Rotweiler and Ryan's pug, Mandella. Remaining in the inland empire will be their 20-year old son, Scotty G., his wife, Marthy and their 19-year old daughter, Erika. Guilbert's last appearances in the inland empire include being one of the announcers for TV-3's taping of the Black Culture Foundation parade this Saturday morning, February 5th and she will also serve as Master of Ceremonies for the Black Culture Foundation Annual Ball that evening. Guilbert also plans to tape three more shows as Host of "Education Roundtable" for the San Bernardino City Unified School District and one show for San Bernardino Valley College airing on KCSB, TV-3. Her equestrian event

One Step Forward, Two Steps Back

“There are two things to aim at in life: first, to get what you want; and after that to enjoy it. Only the wisest of people achieve the second.” Logan Pearsall Smith

Are you concerned? I am! We often wonder how many of us ever take a straight forward, for right, ruthless look at ourselves, and ask whether we are making progress or falling apart. Perhaps we should all take this inventory once-in-a-while. There is one thing for sure, the law of life says that you will go one way or the other—up or down. We are losing ground in Moreno Valley according to the latest newspaper report.

One Step Forward, Two Steps Back: I get the feeling that we are losing ground here in Moreno Valley. I get that feeling when I read reports, the newspaper, watch TV, and listen to people. Where are we going from here? When you read the news, do you get the feeling that we are living in the dark ages? We are discovering that some people are not allowed to become a productive part of the total academic picture. When are we going to stop letting hatred, envy and violence take over our society, and allow God's word to guide us.

When there is a qualified, good person in a position, and they are delivering positive results, let that person alone and let them do their job!!! This message is for everyone regardless of Race, Creed or Color.

We are discovering that there are many tasks we all must accomplish if we are to be totally free. Many times this is determined by the individual, whether it is a positive or negative experience. We must learn to adjust to various situations and functions in society as we attempt to provide for our families and communities. We should always maintain respect for each other, as we contribute to the welfare of our fellowman.

As bad as the situation may seem, I have never seen it so bad that it justifies the personal and professional bad taste that is being displayed here in Moreno Valley. We don't need this reputation. We are now being recognized for our crime rate and racist attitude. Home sars are being robbed and people are being hurt by thugs. We have people who are committing murders, rapes, and gang type shootings. These things were very rare years ago in Moreno Valley. Now we have professionals attempting to deny other professionals the opportunity to share their talent. We took one step forward as we attempt to provide a place where people of different racial backgrounds can live and produce in peace, and the forces of evil are attempting to push us back two steps. My Father in heaven says, speak out for what is right and work at it. I am! Will you join me? This article has nothing to do with the racial background, of a person. It is for all people! It is Right vs. Wrong!

We have people committing suicide every day, read the news. Murder, rape and gang shootings are very common. Elementary school children and babies in their mother's arms are being shot. Citizens, educators, professional people, where do we go from here? Teaching a person to hate and disrespect another person is certainly not the answer, stop it!

“If I were to search for the central core of difficulty in people as I have come to know them, it is that in the greatest majority of cases they despise themselves, regarding themselves as worthless and unlovable”, said Carl Rodgers.

Where do we go from there? Why not turn it over to God and forget this hatred. Forgive and love your fellowman. More importantly, forgive and love yourself. Often when conflict and hardships are experienced on our jobs, in our homes, communities and nation, it causes the people to develop a sense of hopelessness. We were not born to be in this hopeless state. A great speaker once said, “When you were born, you were given the world as a birthday gift.” We must work together, serve together, pray together and love and respect each other. We are not without hope. However, during times of conflict personal problems seem to dominate our society. We must learn to “roll with the punch”. (I learn that from my boxing and judo career.

Let us get off the other person's back. Everyone is different, “Praise God”. Everyone has something to offer. We must give everyone a chance. If you are not in the position to help someone, please do not attempt to hurt them. Together, we can!

Black Women's Group Denounce 'Gangsta' Rap

BY LAWRENCE L. KNOTSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

▲National Political Congress of Black Women call for crusade against lyrics that demean or threaten women

Black women's groups urged a national crusade Friday to persuade the music industry to clean up violent 'gangsta rap' lyrics that they said demean and threaten women.

In nearly two hours of speeches, they called for picket lines around stores selling violent rap but stopped short of asking for a formal boycott of 'filthy' rap records and the radio and television stations that air them.

Delores Tucker, head of the National Political Congress of Black Women, said the groups will put pressure on producers and distributors of rap music to “stop the wholesale marketing of this kind of music across America.”

“We don't want to use the word boycott, but we want to bring to the community what this rap is all about,” she said.

“We're asking people to put picket lines around these stores to stop this,” she said, adding that she was also upset by the allegedly 'pornographic' illustrations she said accompany many rap records.

“We're going to mount a major crusade and believe me, women know how to stop what they don't like,” Tucker said.

“What you're doing is going to work,” said comedian and civil rights activist Dick Gregory. “But you have to interfere with the commerce of America.”

Defenders of gangsta rap have said their lyrics are protected by the First Amendment's guarantees of freedom of speech.

Tucker said her organization has asked constitutional experts to research the issue in light of violent nature of some of the lyrics.

“Does the First Amendment give the right to incite a riot, to incite killing and, murder and rapping?” she asked. “That's what we're fighting.”

Tamara Wilds, 19, a Washington native, said she “suffers directly from the brutal and violent language in rap music today.”

Wilds, a sophomore at Occidental College in Los Angeles, said the repeated use of words denigrating women in some rap lyrics encourage rape and even murder.

“I have been bombarded by these words,” she said.

Because of them, she said, many “young men think they have to slap their girlfriends around and insult them.”
